

Our best April's greetings to you!

From the TCG team

Greetings,

"a symbol of fighting through the challenges of life and emerging victorious on the other side..."

There is a long-running folk belief that blowing out the white puffball of seeds of the dandelion will grant the person a wish. We are blowing ours to wish every one of you, your family, and loved ones good health, wherever you are.

To those who celebrate Easter this month:

Joyeuses Pâques!

To all:

Stay safe and keep well.

Instead of our usual “quest” around the world, this month, there will not be a photo contest.

However, our journey in life continues, we invite you to travel to your inner world, in solitude with yourself, and/or in company with your family and close ones.

(Please send me an email if you wish to share your journey.)

Bon voyage!

A Journey A Month...

Your Story. Our Story. The Human Story.

Amid the unfolding challenges of Covid-19, emails to my in-boxes, and notification to social media platforms have increased by 3X to 5X for the recent weeks. From medical updates to investment advice, CEO's messages, and new business services.

Other than that, there are also good intentional forwards from friends on social media, many a time, repeated info from different caring friends, resulting in a significant surge of activities in my “virtual” world. Therefore, I will keep this newsletter simple with two options:

Option (1): We hope you receive our best wishes with the white dandelion “puff-ball blow” above. If you don't have the time to read further, you can stop right here.

Option (2): If you do have some extra time because of the new “stay-home” arrangements, here is a documentary for you. Watching the 80 minutes clip may change your road-map for the future.

Background: Joseph Campbell, an American professor, studied and researched comparative mythology and comparative religion. He discovered a pattern about the human experience in every story around the world, and he called it "The Hero's Journey."

FINDING JOE is about the journey of self-discovery. Featured Deepak Chopra, Rashida Jones, Robin Sharma, Sir Ken Robinson, Mick Fleetwood, etc. You may learn some inspirational lessons as you seek out your true identity and calling in life...

While I ponder mine, I hope "Finding Joe" will inspire you to seek yours...
